ATTACHMENT A RESUME FOR T. DAVID CROSSE

I have forty two year career in aerospace industry with the majority in launch vehicle engineering and launch site operations for the McDonnell-Douglas, Boeing and United Launch Alliance companies. I retired in January 2009 as Chief Engineer of the Delta II Program.

Work Experience:

2002 to 2009: Chief Engineer, Delta II program, Boeing Corporation/ULA. I was responsible for mission success, technical operations and engineering launch decision authority. The program successfully launched 39 vehicles during that time for NASA, the Air Force and for ULA's commercial customers, from both Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg AFB. The Delta II-Heavy vehicle configuration was developed and successfully launched during my tenure.

1999 to 2002: Leader, Delta III Return-to-Flight project, Boeing Corporation. This project resulted in a complete flight with all hardware functioning successfully. Following the return-to-flight project, I also set up the independent Mission Assurance organization which was responsible for independent technical and risk assessments. This was in response to the USAF Broad Area Review and the Boeing Mission Assurance Review. The Mission Assurance Group covered the Delta II, Delta IV, and the Titan IV Fairing programs.

1989 to 1999: Director of Engineering, International Space Station Program, McDonnell Douglas/Boeing. As the Director of Engineering, managed a series of Integrated Product Teams.

1986 to 1989: Senior Manager, Delta Mechanical Engineering, McDonnell Douglas. Participated in the development of both the Delta II vehicle and the Titan IV payload fairing.

1967 to 1986 Engineer, McDonnell Douglas Corporation. Served as the engineering manager of the Delta launch team at CCAFS and a test engineer working on the launching of Delta and Thor launch vehicles.

Education:

1966 B.S.M.E., Indiana Institute of Technology
